

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

[00447] A system, method and device for controlling the use of digital content in accordance with usage rights information associated with the digital content and specifying a manner of use for the digital content, including generating a request, from a client device, for digital content; receiving the request at a content distributor repository; downloading the content and usage rights information associated with the content from the content distributor repository to the client device; enforcing the usage rights information with a repository coupled to the client device to render the content by a rendering engine of the client device only in accordance with the manner of use.